

Ryan's Rules of Order

1. I choose to be personally dedicated to holding the highest consciousness for the entire group, no matter what any outward appearance may be.
2. I choose to own, recognize, embrace and verbalize my fears.
3. I choose to be willing to speak my microscopic truth with kindness, compassion, dignity and love.
4. I choose to assume that everyone is doing the best they can at this and every moment.
5. I choose to assume that everything that is occurring is for the highest good of everyone – individually, as a group, and as an organization, whether or not I see HOW it is for the highest good at this moment.
6. I choose to assume that everyone is operating from a position of love, never from a position of mal-intent, even when that love is being obscured by fear.
7. I choose to remember that everything is unfolding in Perfect Timing.

I declare my intention to put Ryan's Rules of Order into action in my organization and in my life for the betterment of all humankind. I affirm that every day I will practice these Rules of Order and help those around me practice them as well.
